1. What motivated you to seek nomination for this committee?

I currently serve as a member of Clergy Salaries and Pensions, and the Ecclesiastical Trial Board, and am looking to continue my participation and contributions to the Diocese of Pennsylvania and its membership through re-election to these positions. I bring extensive experience and subject matter expertise in a variety of relevant areas in addition to an open heart and sound judgment, and desire to serve God's people. My service to the Diocese is in addition to my work on behalf of my home church and the broader community, and is part of my personal stewardship program.

2. If nominated, what added value would you bring to the Diocese in moving the committee forward with God's work?

I bring over 20 years of relevant health and wellness, benefits, insurance, information technology and data analysis experience and subject matter expertise to CS&P. I am dedicated to development and implementation of effective and cost-efficient programs that meet the short and long term needs of our clergy and eligible lay communities. I work hard to make sure that there is clarity on issues and their importance, and work toward consensus on how to move processes or programs forward in a way that supports the rights and interests of the group and the individuals who are involved. I've worked in various capacities on the vestries of my home churches for over 12 years and now continue my service at the diocesan level.

3. Please list relevant experience.

I've led development, implementation and operations of innovative and cost-effective benefits and wellness programs for nonprofit organizations, union trust funds, governments and for profit businesses as an executive and practitioner. I've worked closely with staff and management in developing programs and processes to deal with issues around regulatory and policy compliance, with supporting risk assessment and governance procedures. In addition, I bring extensive background in health/wellness, as a Ph.D exercise physiologist, gerontologist and bioethicist, and a sound foundation in data analysis. I also have significant experience developing and leading organizations, and developing/managing organization, program and project budgets.
